

Insurance solutions for butchers that are a cut above the rest

Help safeguard your business with AMIC insurance arranged by Marsh.

Marsh is proud to be the official risk and insurance broker partner for the Australian Meat Industry Council. No matter your size, our experienced broking team understands the risks associated with your business, and specialises in arranging competitively priced insurance, combining traditional insurance policies with innovative solutions.

Insurance solutions and services available for what and when you need it

Marsh's experienced team of brokers have harnessed the collective needs of Australian butchers to secure a comprehensive insurance solution tailored specifically for the risk exposures of the industry.

As multiple policies can help safeguard your business, including public and product liability, machinery breakdown and business interruption, our comprehensive business insurance package covers all of these and more. And if you are a small good supplier with a larger or more complex business with physical assets of more than $10 million, our Industrial special risk insurance cover will be more suitable to you.

What are some of the risk and insurance challenges facing the industry

- Property damage arising from highly flammable materials such as Expanded Polystyrene (EPS) panels;
- Accidental damage to goods stored in cold storage spaces, especially during peak demand seasons;
- Pressure on business owners to minimise any financial impacts when turnover volumes increase;
- Allegations by third parties of injury or damage to their property while at a butcher's place of business.

Additional benefits to help meet the risk exposures of the industry include

- Automatic 100% seasonal increases of stock for 120 days of the policy period
- High tolerance cover for EPS Panels (cool room panelling)
- Robust machinery breakdown and deterioration of stock coverage
- Variable theft limits including $10,000 limit for theft without forced entry
- Workers compensation services including compliance and auditing, work health and safety, employee accident and return to work.

Marsh can help optimise your business risk and governance

The unique risks associated with the meat industry are evolving. These risks can impact costs, operations, culture and reputation. The team of experts at Marsh can help equip your business and manage your risk, so you can have a more resilient business and get on with servicing your clients.

“Marsh saved Hunt & Co Quality Meats time and administrative burden usually associated with business insurance renewal thanks to their industry and processes expertise. It was great to speak with a broker who understood the meat industry. Riley from Marsh made the process easy for me, and was great to work with.
